

A surveillance camera system can have many benefits for your industrial site including:

- Reduced theft: Prominently displayed security cameras can prevent theft from occurring and help you identify those who do steal or vandalize your property
- Protect employees: Video surveillance can help keep your employees safe from intruders or thieves, and also from occupational hazards like damaged equipment.

- Building security: IP video surveillance can help you expand your current security system. Instead of constantly watching monitors, security guards can patrol more and actively protect your building while still being able to monitor your cameras.
